

Did you receive the smallpox vaccine while you were pregnant?

- The National Smallpox Vaccine in Pregnancy Registry was created to follow the pregnancy outcomes of women who were exposed to the smallpox vaccine during pregnancy.
- Information to date has been reassuring, but your participation in the Registry will help us better understand the potential risks, if any, of receiving the smallpox vaccine in pregnancy.
- If you received the vaccine during pregnancy or within four weeks prior to conception, please contact the Registry team at the DoD Center for Deployment Health Research. All information will be held strictly confidential.
